Why Book Eric?

When it comes to booking motivational talent for your next event, you have many options to choose from. In fact, you may not know exactly where to start in deciding who is best equipped to speak to your group, deliver a strong message and inspire the audience. Some speakers may be funny, others clever, a few more may bring a spiritual element and others may have the key ability to draw in the audience. What if you could find all these elements and more in one powerful speaker? The short answer is...You can! Eric Bailey is everything listed above and more. Whether the audience is filled with high school kids, college students, young professionals or senior executive, Eric has the keen ability to engage the audience while at the same time motivating them to real action in order to change their lives in a positive manner.

Why should you book Eric Bailey for your next event?

Following are the top five reasons:

IMMEDIATELY INTRIGUING

Eric has the unique skill to capture the audience's attention in the first few moments of his presentation and holds that attention for the duration of the event. This is integral to making certain that the core message really hits home for the audience. There will be no point in the presentation wherein the audience is distracted, bored or lacking in enthusiasm. Eric is always absolutely certain that participants feel that he is speaking directly to them...in their language...addressing their issues...and offering nearly customized solutions to their individual concern. Some participants quickly feel as though Eric is speaking only to them and that the balance of the audience somehow fades away in what feels like an inspiring one-on-one session designed just for them. By doing this, individuals will leave Eric Bailey's presentations feeling as though he spoke specifically to them and will take all of his key messages to heart.

ADAPTIVE TO THE AUDIENCE

A corporate audience is very different than those attending a high school anti-bullying event. An audience filled with out of work middle-aged folks looking for gainful employment is quite different from a room filled with recent college graduates preparing to embark on their first careers. Whatever the landscape of the audience, Eric Bailey will adjust and adapt his presentation to speak to only their needs. He will tap into their desires, their fears, their motivators and their aspirations in a successful effort to customize a presentation for that specific clientele.

Eric can speak on varied topics including:

Youth Issues

- Corporate Motivation
- Passive Income
- Health
- Nutrition
- Overcoming Personal Obstacles

correct tools. When it comes to changing your life, improving your life, living your dreams and focusing on pure success in your life, Eric Bailey will provide the tools that you need. Words can sometimes be empty unless they are presented in such a way that actually provides much needed tools to make real change in your life. What sets Eric Bailey apart? His ability to provide an Activational session that is meant to compel folks to actually making significant changes to their lives. Real tools coupled with sincere motivation, confidence and encouragement means that the audience now has the ability to change the course of their lives. This is the Activational recipe!

LONG LASTING RESULTS

Most people walk away from a motivational session feeling inspired and ready to tackle the world. Sadly, for some folks that motivated feeling lasts only a day or so. When the motivation and enthusiasm wanes, this means that no legitimate and long lasting change will actually occur. Feeling great for a short period of time is nice, but real life change is invaluable. This is the true skill set of Eric Bailey: long lasting results along with a motivated feeling that will truly endure. When you marry motivation with real life tools, you have the perfect formula for a life changing event. Even for those participants that feel that their future is bleak, that they have exhausted every opportunity or that they are on the brink of emotional collapse, these sessions will prove to be nothing short of a life-saver.

THE AUDIENCE SPEAKS FOR ITSELF

This all sounds wonderful so far, but the real proof to all of this is in what the audience itself has to say about Eric Bailey. After all, they are the ones that have lived it, experienced it, and applied it to their lives. Let's hear what they have to say...

“ Eric was a breath of fresh air in the motivational speaking world. The particular workshop I attended was dedicated to professional development – how to move forward in life with a different attitude – an attitude that enables you to rise above the crowd, meet challenges head on and be passionate in everything you do. This particular workshop was also interactive and engaging – I've never seen dancing before at a motivational workshop! I came away feeling recharged, inspired and more importantly, a winning attitude. It's been 4 weeks since the workshop and I still have the buzz and the tools to face my fears! ” Thanks Eric.
